HERBERT J. SAMUEL
1882-1926

"The Canadian Jewish Review" feels that in the death of Rabbi Samuel Jewry suffers the very keenest loss. Even those who knew him slightly knew that he was what people call a fine man. He had the interests of the Jewish people so sincerely at heart. He was a gentleman always. His associates will never forget him. It is in sorrow that they chronicle his death.

Rabbi Herbert J. Samuel, 44 years old, rabbi of the congregation of Temple Emanu-El, Montreal, dropped dead in Asheville, N.C., June 23, a few moments after making an address before the central conference of American rabbis in convention.

Rabbi Samuel was noticed suddenly to fall in his seat and before a physician arrived, five minutes later, he was dead.

A meeting of the executive board of the conference was called immediately following his death by Rabbi Louis Wolsey, president of the conference, at which it was decided that the convention would hear the paper scheduled to be read by Dr. Wolfson, of Harvard University, but that all social events would be immediately cancelled and that the remainder of the conference would be devoted strictly to the business before it.

Services were held at the Spruce Street Temple of the Congregation of Beth Hatephillah, Asheville, where, as well as many Jewish citizens of the city, over 100 rabbis from all parts of the United States and Canada, led by Rabbi Louis Wolsey, of Philadelphia, president of the conference, assembled. The casket, which lay in the synagogue, was covered with calla lilies given by the Asheville committee of arrangements for the convention.

Rabbi Henry Cohen, of Galveston, Jew's College, London, alumni brother of Rabbi Samuel, read the service of the Reform, and Rabbi B. R. Brickner, of Cleveland, Ohio, formerly of Toronto, delivered the eulogy.

Expressing his regret that so unfortunate a circumstance should have occurred which compelled him to introduce his late friend in death rather than in life, Rabbi Brickner told how it had long been the ambition of Rabbi Samuel to become affiliated with this conference.

"During his rabbinate in Winnipeg," he said, "he became the accepted, if not the appointed, chief rabbi of the whole Jewish population of Manitoba and of all western Canada. He was the liaison officer between the Jewish community and the Government officials. He was several times honoured by the University of Manitoba, and the Anglican Archbishop of the province said of him: 'He was an ideal gentleman, a fine Britisher and a wonderful Jew,' and this expresses the sentiment and regard in which he was held everywhere. He was a man of extreme gentleness, fine simplicity, scholarly attainments, and lived a beautiful life. What more can be said of any man?"

The body was accompanied to Montreal by Rabbi Iser Freund, of Hamilton, Ont., and Rabbi Clifton Harby Levy, of the Temple of Jewish Faith and Jewish Science, New York.

Rabbi Samuel came to Montreal in the early part of September, 1925, succeeding Rabbi Max Merritt as head of the Temple. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, October 13, 1882. He came of a long line of rabbis and educationists. His father, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, was the son of a rabbi, a member of the Dublin congregation. His mother, who was born in Liverpool, was the grand-daughter of the famous Moses Samuel, a scholar and author of the early nineties, an editor of a number of Jewish periodicals and the first translator of the works of Moses Mendelssohn into English. This Moses Samuel, was a brother of Louis Samuel, grandfather of Sir Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary in the Lloyd George cabinet, former High Commissioner for Palestine under the British mandate, and, more recently, chairman of the royal commission which investigated the British coal mine situation. Rabbi Samuel could trace his ancestry back through seven generations of British-born Jews. He was himself a British subject.

After attending Jews' College, London, for a time, Rabbi Samuel entered University College, London, from which he was graduated in 1906. He took up his ministry in Swansea, South Wales, and remained there until 1914, when he came to Canada and settled at Winnipeg. There he was rabbi of Shaarey Zedek congregation, and identified himself with every other phase of the community life.

He was a member of the provincial executive of the Manitoba Boy Scouts' organization, in 1924 was named chaplain of the Winnipeg Canadian Club, and was on the executive committee of that body until he went to Montreal. He contributed to the work of the National Council of Education. Since coming to Montreal he had become a member of the Juvenile Court Committee.

He worked in connection with the Anti-Defamation Committee for the whole of Canada. This organization was started in Winnipeg, Rabbi Samuel being one of the organizers, but it spread throughout Canada and he was instrumental in organizing many of the branches.

He was a delegate to the Central American District of Bnai Brith and was a supporter of Hebrew free schools and the Zionist movement. He was also a member of the Winnipeg Ministerial Association.

Rabbi Samuel is survived by his widow and two daughters, Anna and Golda Samuel, who live at 989 Atwater Avenue.

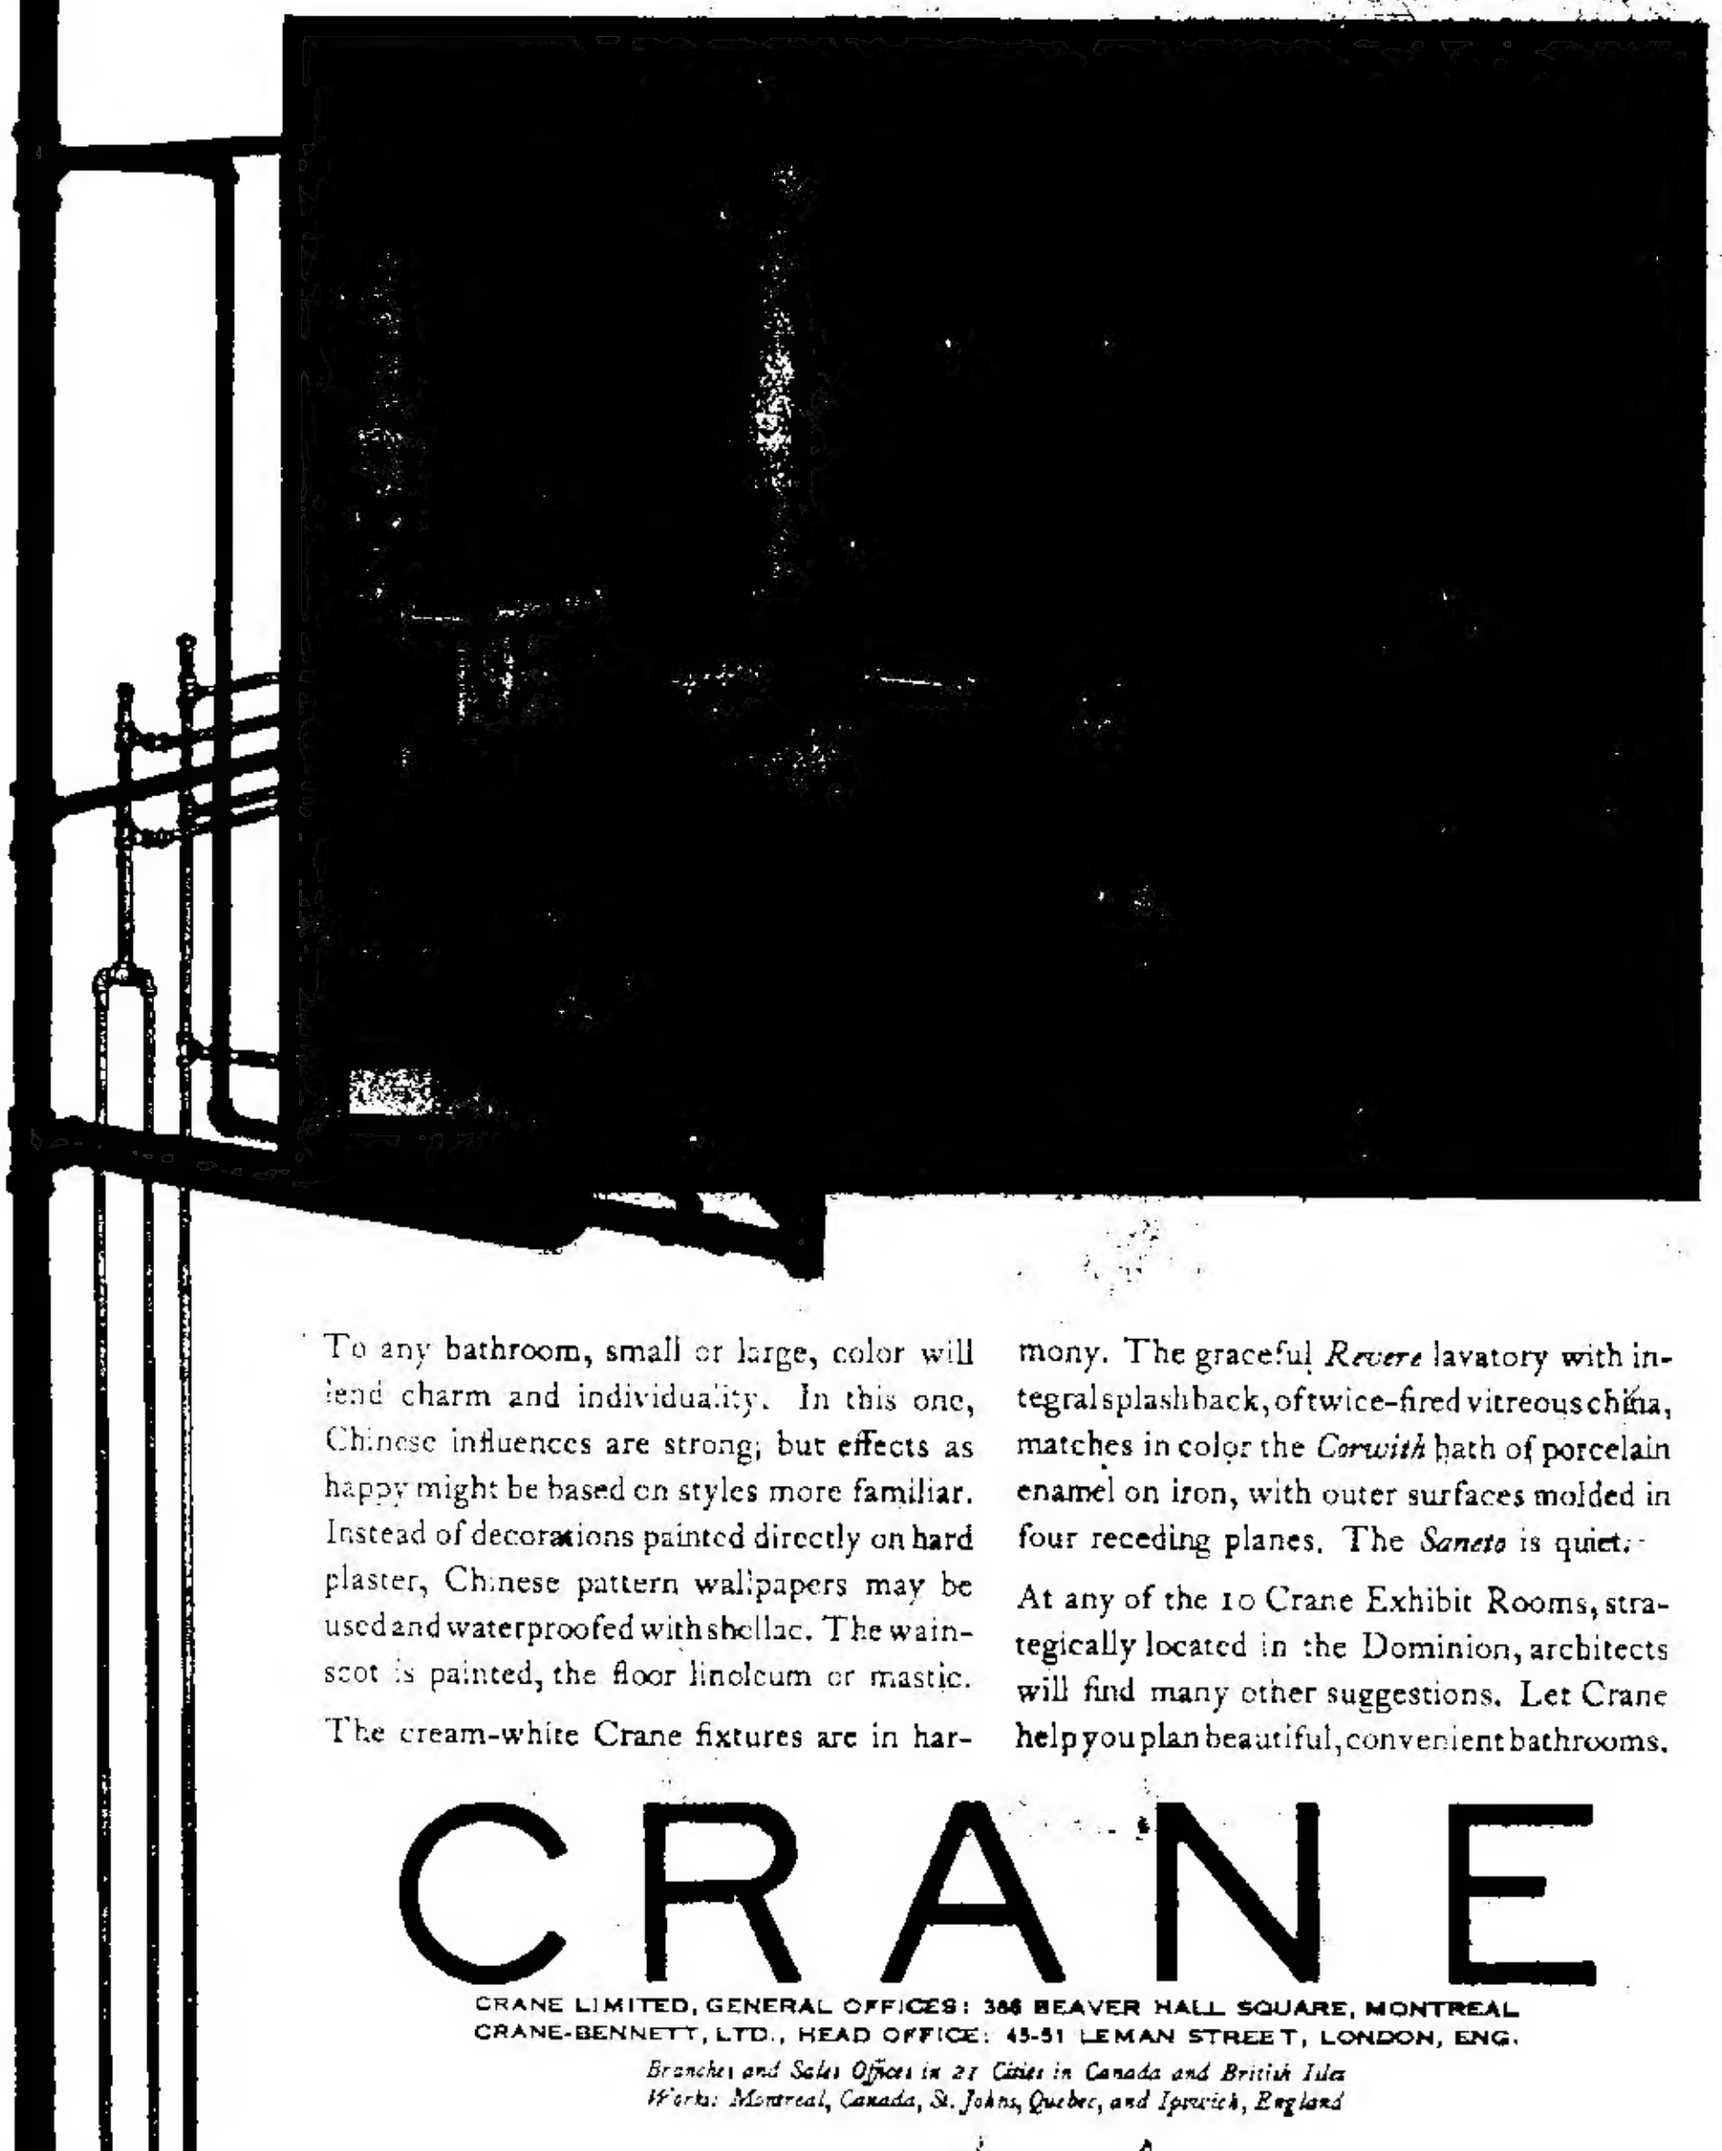
CRANE VALVES



To any bathroom, small or large, color will lend charm and individuality. In this one, Chinese influences are strong; but effects as happy might be based on styles more familiar. Instead of decorations painted directly on hard plaster, Chinese pattern wallpapers may be used and waterproofed with shellac. The wainscot is painted, the floor linoleum or mastic.

The cream-white Crane fixtures are in harmony. The graceful Revere lavatory with integral splash back, of twice-fired vitreous china, matches in color the Corwith bath of porcelain enamel on iron, with outer surfaces molded in four receding planes. The Saneto is quiet.

At any of the 10 Crane Exhibit Rooms, strategically located in the Dominion, architects will find many other suggestions. Let Crane help you plan beautiful, convenient bathrooms.

MONTREAL BUILDING

MONTREAL, a city of one million inhabitants, is enjoying a building activity of late that has done much to improve housing conditions, both in the more congested parts of the city as well as in the suburbs. "Better homes—and more of them" seems to be the slogan of the day, a slogan well heeded by the Jewish members of the community, who have shown marked interest and keen foresight in investments covering development of properties both for residential and business purposes. Every season has seen several new building enterprises launched by Jews, and has left Montreal a fairer and more progressive city.

SYNAGOGUES

The corner-stone of the oldest Jewish Building, the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, 115 Stanley Street, was laid in December 1887, and the synagogue dedicated for worship on August 31, 1890.

The synagogue is of Judaeo-Egyptian style and is of most attractive design, presenting an exterior with colonnades and pillars, between which suspended oriental lamps. At west end is an arc of Italian white marble, the centre of which previously stood on Chenneville Street building.

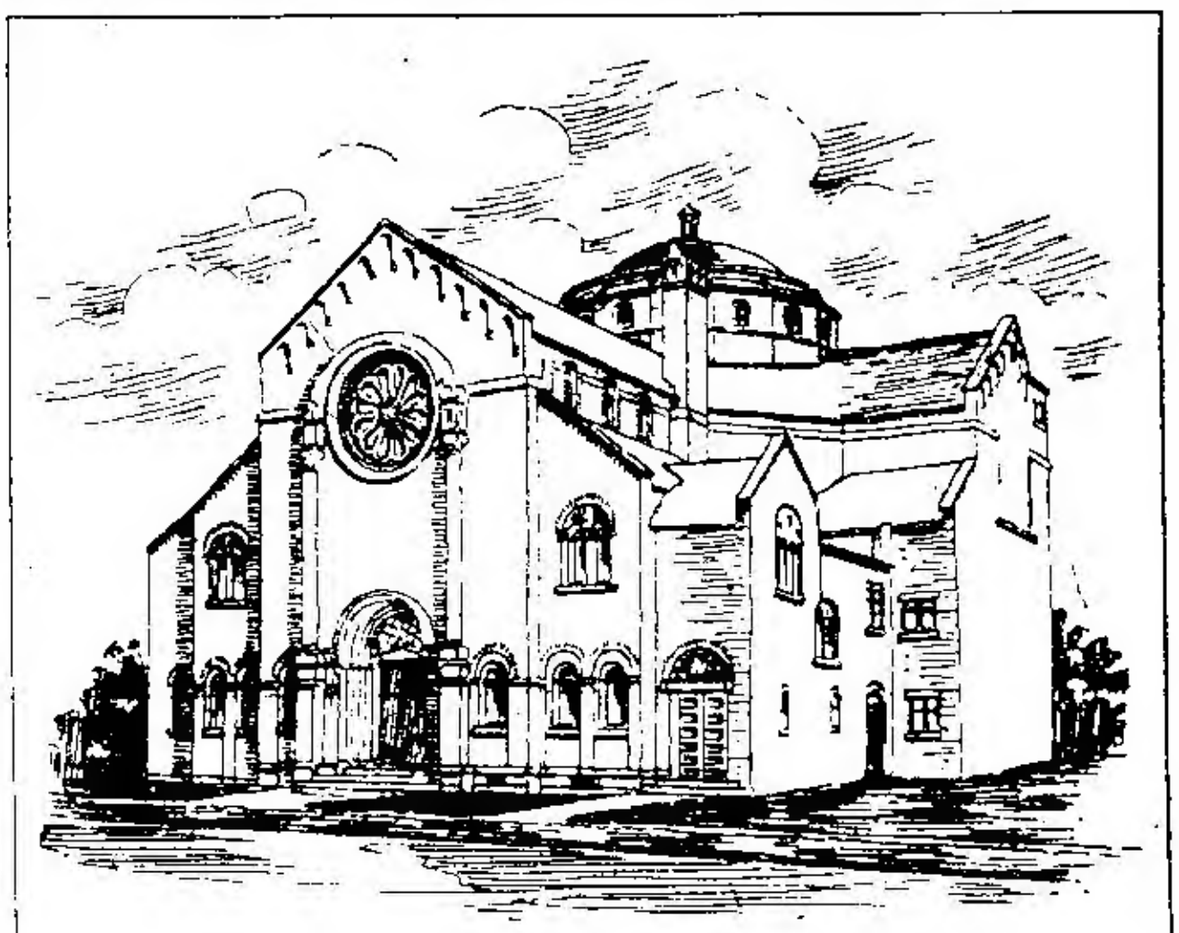
It was designed by Clarence I. de Sola. Rabbi Mendola de Sola officiated. Clarence I. de Sola was parnass and secretary of the building committee.

Since that time many houses of worship have been erected, the most costly being the Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue on Cote St. Antoine Road and Kensington Avenue, which was built at an expenditure of one-half million dollars, with Melvin Miller as architect. An air of dignity and spaciousness has been given by the terrazo floors, marble and tile work, admirably executed by the Smith Marble and Construction Co., Ltd., of Van Horne Avenue.

A structure, cathedral-like in its imposing proportions and dominating its immediate surroundings, it breathes the very life of stateliness and permanence. Built in a grey vitrified brick and sandstone, it is capped by a series of small Moorish cupolas that lend a touch of mystic orientalism to the whole. Fifteen hundred worshippers can be housed in its vast and lofty auditorium, unique in being furnished with two pulpits on either side of the Ark, one of which is reserved for the rabbi only, and the other a separate reading desk for the Reader. There are no side galleries nor pillars to mar the interior. Two large logs raised about two feet from the floor flanking the sides, are reserved for the ladies, and replace the old-fashioned galleries. In addition to this auditorium, which is the synagogue proper, the building has many of the features of a modern community centre.

Stanley Street Synagogue (Spanish and Portugese Congregation)

Rabbi Herman Abramowitz officiated at the dedication service, September 17, 1922. Directors of the synagogue at the time of the building were: president, Lyon Cohen; vice-president, A. L. Gittleson; secretary, M. J. Heillig; trustees, M. A. Vineberg, M. Silver, Joseph Livinson, Jacob Kellert, A. Lessor, William Levy, A. Rudolph. Building committee: J. A. Jacobs, chairman; William Levy, vice-chairman; A.Z. Cohen, Michael Hirsch, George Rabinovitch, H. M. Levin, A. Lessor, B. S. Freidman, Harris, H. Cohen, Henry Weinfield, M. A. Vineberg, M. J. Glickman, William Albert, A. Levine, Sol Kellert, J. Lande and A. Kellnor. Finance committee: Jacob Kellert, chairman; A. M. Vineberg, vice-chairman, and Isaac Freedman, Samuel Weiner, Joseph Levinson, A. Rudolph, J. Elkin, P. Glickman, Robert Hirsch, M. Silver, H. W. Freedman, H. Greenberg, Samuel Hart, D. Livinson, H. Levi. Executive committee: Lyon Cohen, chairman; Jacob Kellert, treasurer; N. J. Fraid, secretary, and J. A. Jacobs, A. Z. Cohen, A. M. Vineberg, Sol Kellert, B. S. Freidman, A. Lessor, William Levy; Dr. H. Abramowitz ex-officio on all committees.



Temple Emanu-El

Temple-Emanu-El, Sherbrooke Street, near Greene Avenue, was dedicated for worship, September 19, 1911, when Rabbi Nathan Gordon was leader of the congregation. The building executed in Byzantine style, by J. M. Miller, architect, originally cost $65,000, but is now worth upwards of $160,000. The chairman of the building committee was Mark Workman, and president of the congregation at that time, Maxwell Goldstein. The late Rabbi H. J. Samuel was its recent leader.

The Shaare Zion Congregation paid $20,000 for the old Trinity Church, on Claremont Avenue, below Sherbrooke Street. After spending another $10,000 in repairs by M. Fromson, contractor, the building was dedicated by Rabbi Julius Berber a few months ago. It is expected that a new synagogue will be erected within a few years.

gregation built a synagogue on St. Urbain and Mount Royal Avenues, which was ready for July 7, 1916. It was September 22, 1916, and formally dedicated in December, 1916, by Rabbi H. Abramowitz, Rabbi H. Cohen, Lyon Cohen and H. M. Levin. The chairman of the building committee, M. Fromson, was the contractor in charge of the building, which cost over $20,000.

W. Myerson was president of the Bnai Jacob Congregation when the Bnai Jacob Synagogue, on Fairmount Avenue corner Esplanade Avenue, was erected in 1920, at a cost of a quarter-million, with Dufort and Gaster as architects.

The Beth Jehuda Synagogue Duluth Street, near City Hall Avenue, was built five years ago. The Chevra Kadisha Congregation bought a church building at the corner of Milton and Marie that was dedicated for worship, as was also the Beth Hamedrash Hagodal, on Notre Dame Street West.

Communal Buildings

In 1911 the Jews of Montreal erected the Baron de Hirsch Institute at 2040 Bleury Street—a building planned by Bernard & Paris architects, which originally cost $45,000, and which houses today the administrative offices of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, the family welfare department, the legal aid department, the library, courtroom for arbitration, assembly hall and Jewish Colonization Association, as well as many other constituent societies. The corner stone of this building was laid June 3 1901, in the presence of Monsieur Prefontaine, mayor of Montreal, and was formally opened May 29, 1902, by the Earl of Minto, then governor-general of Canada.

The building committee was made up of D. A. Ansell, A. Goldstein, I Rubinstein, Lyon Cohen and E. L. Rosenthal. The group instrumental in erecting the Baron de Hirsch Institute, formed in 1863, was known as the Young Men's Hebrew Benevolent Society, and used to meet at its headquarters on St. Elizabeth Street. Officers were: president, L. L. Levey; vice-president, I. B. Davis; treasurer, G. G. Levey, secretary, M. Moss; committee, G. Littauer, I. Ascher, Lawrence Cohen S. Silverman, M. Gutman,

A most important communal need was filled in 1912, when a group of women, headed by Mrs. Kalman, 500 Cadieux Street, and Mrs. de Zwerick, arranged for the purchase of the Hebrew Maternity Hospital, 890 Cadieux Street, for $7,772. The first board of directors was made of up: president, David Ruttenberg; treasurer, I. Benjamin; and B. Trachtenberg, A. Fogel and Dr. N. Schacher. The building, which has been in constant use since 1914, is now wholly inadequate. Plans have already been drawn up for a new Jewish hospital, with a wing especially equipped for maternity work, to be built shortly. The committee in charge of the campaign to raise funds for this purpose, made up of members of the lay and medical Board of the Hebrew Maternity Hospital, and of the board of the Jewish General Hospital, is: Lyon Cohen, Allan Bronfman, Abe Asch, L. The Montefiore Club, on Guy Street, was built in 1906, at a cost of $40,000, with Saxe and Archibald as architects. The formal opening was in May, 1906, when Maxwell Goldstein was president. The club was formed in 1880 by a group of men and women who met in a building on St. Catherine Street. The membership to-day is confined to men only, and almost reaches the 300 mark. Officers are president, Michael Hirsch; vice-president, David Kirsch; honorary treasurer, Arthur N. Freedman; and honorary secretary, Joel B. Saxe. Officers at the time of the opening of the new building were: president, Maxwell Goldstein, vice-president, E. Blout; honorary secretary, M. J. Hirsch; honorary treasurer, A. Z. Montreal has two Jewish golf clubs the Timberdale Golf and Country Club, at Chambly, bought from George Ravinovitch last year for $100,000, and which now has a membership of over 300; and the Elm Ridge Golf and Country Club, at Dorval, of which A. Sommer is president. Both courses were formally opened for play last summer. Alterations since June 1925, at the Timberdale Golf and Country Club, at Chambly, were largely in charge of Joe Gilletz, who also executed considerable construction work about town, in addition to work for A. M. Vineberg and Ascher Pierce.

Private Residences

Of private residences, perhaps the most outstanding is that of Sir Mortimer Davis, designed by F. R. The dignified home of Mark Workman, on Sherbrooke Street, the stately dwelling of the De Solas, on Pine Avenue West, with the residences of A. M. Vineberg, on Argyle and Westmount Avenues, of Ascher Pierce, on Upper Belmont Avenue, and many others, both in Outremont and Westmount, have added spots of beauty and interest to our rapidly growing city.

Apartment Houses, etc.

During the last few years many really handsome residential apartments have been built. Drazin Bros., owners of the Lansdowne Court Apartments, which were ready for occupation last October, at a cost of $100,000 are now engaged on another apartment house building on church property at the corner of Sherbrooke and Atwater Avenue, that will, at the end of ninety-nine years, again revert to the church. This building, extremely modern in every detail, has a heating system installed throughout by the Spencer Heater Co., of Canada, and the C. A. Dunham Co., Limited. C. C. McGregor, Bleury Street, arranged the tile and marble work in corridors, staircases and bath-rooms, which are equipped with all that is best in the way of appointments.

A third apartment block, costing $350,000, corner Sherbrooke and Redfern Avenues, Westmount, was also planned by S. Frappier, architect, and it is expected, will be ready for occupancy in October. In the north end of the city, Gersovitz has just completed a $75,000 row of heated flats at Wiseman and Laverie Avenues.

Another splendid modern apartment home has been started by Mrs. Stella Grenier, Jacob and Max Horwitz, in Westmount, Sherbrooke Street West and Strathcona Avenue, facing Westmount Park. The building, which will be divided into four, five and six-room suites, will cost $375,000 and should be ready for occupancy October 1, 1926.

Frappier, architect, which will be completed in October, 1926, with suites of four, five and six rooms. Arnovitz have been interesting themselves for some time in residential flats and apartments in all parts of greater Montreal.

Office and Factory Buildings

Within the last decade and a half, several large office and factory buildings were put up in different parts of the city. The Vineberg Building, on St. Lawrence Boulevard and Duluth, which has eight stories, was built in 1912, by Harris Vineberg. In 1910 J. and S. Kellert put up the seven-storey Kellert Building, on St. Catherine Street, corner St. Urbain, with Hutchison and Wood as architects. The Jacobs building, of eight stories, at 282 St. Catherine Street West, was built by J. A. Jacobs, with Charles A. Mitchell as architect, in 1910, at an expenditure of three and a half million dollars. A. Sommer built another ten-storey edifice on Mayor Street in 1912, with Hutchison and Wood, and J. M. Miller, as architects.

The first section of the Rabinovitch Building, 149 St. Catherine Street East, built by George Rabinovitch, was completed in August, 1911, with G. A. Monette as architect. The second section, finished in 1922, with Hutchison and Wood as architects, completes the imposing seven-storey office and manufacturing building.

George Rabinovitch has since built a six-storey building, occupying a block on St. Catherine Street, facing both Amherst and St. Timothy Streets. Ross & Macdonald were architects for this building, which was ready in May, 1925. In addition to offices, stores and manufacturing flats, it gives space for the Amherst Theatre, designed by C. Davis Goodman, architect, and operated by J. J. Allen, of Toronto.

S. and M. Rabinovitch erected the Main Building, on St. Lawrence Boulevard and Ontario Street, with C. Dufort as architect. The building, which was ready in May, 1915, cost $450,000 and is equipped for stores, offices and manufacturing flats. It has a basement and five stories, although the foundation was built for ten stories.

C. Davis Goodman, Bleury Street, was architect for a new building completed for Singer Bros., of the Atlas Paper Box factory, on Marie Anne Street last March, with Joe Gilletz, contractor in charge. Joe completed the Kenmore Apartments in Outremont, and is at present engaged on two large apartment blocks on Lajoie Avenue.

The American Tailor Building (Sol S. Vineberg, Jr., proprietor) was completed in August, 1924, at the corner of Mansfield and Burnside Avenues, with Ross Macdonald as architects and James Shearer as contractor. The Funeral of Rabbi Samuel in Montreal

While [illegible] Winnipeg the Manitoba Free Po[illegible] had the Union Jack and the Zionis[illegible] flags flying at half mast, Monday [illegible]une 28, heads of four congregations eulogized from the same pulpit, the memory of a fellow-leader, Rabbi Hebert J. Samuel, at the funeral service in Temple Emanu-El. At the foot of the pulpit from which he had preached for a little less than a year, the body of Rabbi Samuel rested in a casket covered with floral offerings. Four Boy Scouts of the Temple Troop stood as guard of honour.

Those who came to pay their last respects were representatives of every section of the Jewish community and many others. Rabbi Iser Freund, of Hamilton, conducted the service, delivering the "Kaddish" prayer. Nathan Gordon, president of the congregation, then took the pulpit. Mr. Gordon said in his eulogy that "Rabbi Samuel had all the qualities that go to make up the perfect gentleman. His every word was uttered with a due regard for the other man's thoughts and feelings and his every deed was prompted by an infinite kindliness and tenderness."

Dr. Herman Abramowitz, of Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue, and president of the United Synagogues of America, said: "I do not recall any event in recent years which has so greatly stirred the Jewish community or so deeply stirred its sympathies as has the occasion which brings us together. Winnipeg, where Rabbi Samuel spent the greater part of his ministry, knew him as the ideal pastor, of gentle, modest and kindly nature. Many people have become the better for his life, spent in the service of humanity."

Dr. Leslie Pidgeon, of the Erskine United Church, spoke as a friend and a colleague of Rabbi Samuel in Winnipeg. He said: "Rabbi Samuel received the views of others with the gentleness and courtesy that is indicative of culture and scholarship. I know that in the City of Winnipeg there is widespread regret, for Rabbi Samuel was too great a man to be confined within the limits of any one community or constituency."

Representatives of many local and national organizations were present, including the Jewish congregations of Montreal, CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, Boy Scout Association, Zionist Organization of Canada, Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity and Bnai Brith Lodge.

Floral offerings were received from Temple Emmanu-El Congregation, staff of the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, Montefiore Club, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Fresh Air Fund

A group of 100 boys left this week to spend fourteen days at Bnai Brith summer camp, at Prefontaine, which has been enlarged this year to accommodate over 400 boys. This group, which is the only Jewish society interested in such work, arranges for free summer vacations for under-privileged Jewish boys, who are chosen by the Family Welfare Department of the Federation. In this way, the boys of the city are splendidly taken care of, but there is a sad need of such care for the women, girls and very young children. The Family Welfare Department of Federation is not provided with funds for this purpose, and would welcome any contributions. Last year a group of women, under the leadership of Mrs. P. Glickman, Redfern Avenue, organized a series of bridge parties in the Laurentian Mountains summer resorts and raised several hundred dollars which paid for a summer holiday for over forty tired women and their young children. A series of entertainments will be arranged shortly for this fresh air fund. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. P. Glickman, 328 Redfern Avenue, Westmount 2132, or to Lena Ashkaloney, CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW, 288 St. James Street, Main 4079, 2285, 8341 and 6344. All donations will be acknowledged in the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW. The convenors want your money, your time, or the loan of your car for a few hours. Communicate with them at once.

Goldman Resigns

Leon Goldman has resigned the office of director and executive secretary of the Zionist Organization of Canada, which he has filled since 1919. Mr. Goldman, executive secretary of the Zionist Organization of Canada, Inc., was born in Moscow, Russia, on the 22nd of Heshvan, 5624 (1864). He was educated in the public schools and at the age of twenty went to New York where he lived for three years. In 1887, he went to live in Paris, France, where he remained for three years, then returning to the United States. In 1892, Mr. Goldman moved to Montreal. In 1897, he was married to Alice, daughter of Nathan and Sheine Poilin, of Moscow, and they have three sons, Arthur Z., Henry J. and Robert H., and one daughter, Miss Raya E. Goldman. Mr. Goldman was in business as a manufacturer from the time of his first arrival in Canada until 1919. During Mr. Goldman's residence in Paris, he became a member of the Chovevei Zion Society, and in 1897 in Montreal, he assisted in the formation of the first Zionist Society in Canada, the Bnai Zion Society. Since that time Mr. Goldman has devoted practically his entire time to Zionist work. The entire time to Zionist work. It was on December 2, 1909, that the administrative bureau of the Zionist Organization was formed with Mr. Goldman as chairman, and he occupied this position until his appointment as executive secretary in 1919 with the establishment of headquarters, staff and divisional offices. Up to this time, Mr. Goldman had acted in an honorary capacity with one paid assistant. He is a member of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, Montreal; the Montreal Hebrew Free Loan Association; the Immigrant Aid Society of Canada; and the United Talmud Torahs of Montreal. For years a member of the Shaar Hashomayim Congregation of Montreal, he has at different times held office in this institution.

The Jewish press saw its duty to Al Jolson instantly and has done nobly by him and his resignation from the Westchester-Biltmore Club. It unveils him a hero come to defend his race against those mean old clubs that won't let a member bring a Jew along to play golf with. He is portrayed as a man of pride and self-respect, one who cannot feel himself at ease in a society which bars its doors to Jews. No questions are asked as to why Al Jolson ever allowed himself to be made an exception in the first place in order to join a "swell" club of Goyim. But, anyway, now that he has demonstrated what he can do with a Gentile social club there remains beyond the Alps a whole Italy of Jewish groups which discriminate against Jews. For instance, Congregation Rodfei Zedek, of the South Side, Chicago, in announcing the completion of its new synagogue, says that it has succeeded in enlisting as members "the best families" and that its building is "in Hyde Park, the richest section of the South Side." Does this sound like an open invitation to just any luckless Litvack? And even the Oakdale Golf and Country Club of Toronto says in its prospectus that it reserves the right to exclude applicants. Why? Aren't you all Jews together, all in Goluth, etc., etc., etc.? Call for Al Jolson here.

Written by A.B.B.

Sage progenitors of ours in the distant past, with some knowledge of physiology and hygiene, have set up a body of regulations to govern the diets of their omnivorous descendants. Succeeding generations of sages, of varying magnitudes, have continued to amplify and elaborate on these regulations, and have, in addition, devised all manner of detailed safeguards to ensure their observance.

As a result of these exercises our present generation is loaded with a vast heritage of innumerable tomes of codes and compendia of laws covering every phase of a non-vegetarian diet. One would imagine that our present generation, particularly on this continent, would regard itself as being adequately supplied with gastronomic guidance. Not so, however, with the section of our generation which inhabits the City of Toronto, and constitutes its Jewish community.

Our local Jews seem to think that their old rabbinical authorities, and their present orthodox rabbis, cannot give them enough law to satisfy their inordinate craving for law. Their Jewish law must be supplemented by secular law. And thus we see Toronto Jews dragging to a Canadian court all their own orthodox rabbis, and as many other Canadian orthodox rabbis as they could get hold of, to have them re-examined and re-tested by the standards of Canadian legal procedure. And thus we see them toting into court the volumes of Jewish law (held sacred by generations of Jews) to be thumbed and analyzed and passed upon by representatives of Canadian secular law. Toronto Jews cannot accord obedience to their rabbis unless they obtain semicha (a diploma) from a Canadian tribunal. They cannot observe their religious laws unless the laws are ratified by non-Jewish counsel and judiciary. The good Jews of this city seem to be afflicted with a psychosis of secular legalism.

The parade of the rabbis in court afforded a rather amusing spectacle to the general public and press. To be sure, there may have been some few orthodox Jews in the city who did not relish the "Revue of the Rabbis." They may have realized that this was no season for burlesque performances. They may even have felt that the educational advantages afforded by the performance to the newspaper reporters and curiosity seekers in teaching them Hebrew words and names were not properly exploited by the intended beneficiaries—the reporters insisted on repeating the Hebrew words and names incorrectly. But if there were any such unappreciative Jews, they certainly did nothing to make their wishes effective. That the burlesque was cut short was not due to the effort of our Jews, but rather to the wisdom and tact of the learned trial judge, who must have grown weary of the company he was obliged to keep.

The committee of American rabbis will presumably have a difficult task to persuade butchers to respect the rabbis whom they are obliged by Jewish law to obey. It may be hard to influence recalcitrant individual rabbis to show deference to the combined judgment of a group of rabbis. It may be troublesome to convince certain visiting rabbis that even the exigencies of a trial do not warrant distortions and misrepresentations of the meaning of Jewish law when giving evidence in the witness box. It may be hopeless to attempt to point out that a proper Kehillah should have larger and wider functions than those of a slaughter-house inspectorate. The arbitration committee will have its hands full in trying to make the guardians of orthodox dietetics live side by side in peace.

The chances of bringing about peace would be greatly enhanced if the lawyers for the warring factions would hasten to send in their bills of costs. The memoranda of fees will be of inestimable value to the committee of rabbis.

CONDITIONS IN POLAND STILL UNSETTLED

The reports that the Jews of Warsaw were the sufferers in the coup d'etat of Pilsudski has fortunately been denied. The military forces of both sides held themselves aloof from the civil population and no excesses of any kind occurred either among the Jewish or the general population. The reports coming from the provincial towns indicate that there also the revolution has had no effect on the peace of the Jewish population. It is reported that when Pilsudsky sent the delegation to former Premier Witos he included the demand that special precautions should be taken against the possibility of anti-Jewish pogroms and asking Witos to protect the Jewish population.

The total number of casualties both of Jewish soldiers and civilians reached thirty-one. These were buried with military honours and accompanied by members of the new government, who delivered addresses at the cemetery.

The danger that is still lurking in the possibility of the conservative elements in Posen taking a definite stand against the Pilsudski government is viewed with much concern by Jewish leaders. Pilsudski's policy is not yet clear, although he was always a liberal and the Jews might expect that if he remains in power their position will undergo some marked improvements. He did not declare his policy, but if he becomes a candidate for the presidency, as is very likely, he will probably have to formulate a platform in which the Jewish question could not be ignored.

Lylyon Miller and Charles Sadowsky, New York high school pupils, won second and third prize, respectively, in the "Keep-Your-Parks-Clean" poster contest of New York high schools which ended last week. The contest was sponsored by the Parks Anti-Litter Committee, of which Mrs. Cyrus L. Sulzberger is chairman.

Isaac Kubie, president of the Kubie Corporation, and well-known New York philanthropist, passed away last week at the age of seventy. Mr. Kubie is survived by his wife, Matilda Steinman Kubie, who is an honorary deputy commissioner of the Department of Public Welfare, and who is noted for her communal work. He is also survived by four sisters and a brother.

JUSTICE FISHER EXPLAINS COMMENT TO LODGE DEPUTATION

A deputation from Bnai Brith Lodge waited on Justice Fisher in the Bankruptcy Court to protest against the strictures which, it was assumed, had been passed by his Lordship on Jews in general in the observations he made recently when delivering judgment on the fraud perpetrated by the officers of Gordon Bros., Limited. The deputation, headed by L. M. Singer, included Isadore Markus, J. D. Pearlstein, Trustee J. M. Gordon, S. J. Bernbaum and Ben. Luxemberg.

Mr. Singer spoke for the delegation and received a pronouncement from His Lordship that his remarks were not intended to convey the impression that credit should be withheld from all Jewish merchants, nor that there were no honest Jewish merchants. His observations were not on the Jewish people as a whole, but were intended to be confined to the class of people who had been found guilty of fraud and had unblushingly perjured themselves in the Bankruptcy Court. His Lordship repeated his statement that 90 per cent. of the fraud investigations that came before him came from that class of Hebrew merchant.

Women: here's a cooling suggestion

ON a hot day it is a pleasure to prepare delicious frozen desserts—easily made by packing freezer with ice and rock salt.

Quickly prepared, and you will thoroughly enjoy doing it—quite a contrast to the hot tedious task of baking pastries and other desserts.

You can make ice take the place of heat for many summer dishes.

Be sure your refrigerator is a good one and keep it filled with pure sparkling ice.

Bessie Love, William Haines, Mary Alden and Vivia Ogden have the leading roles and more capable artists would have been difficult to find.

The story of "Lovey Mary" has been taken from the book of that name by Alice Hegan Rice, author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and the characters and locale are the same in both stories.

Bessie Love is seen as an ugly duckling, with pigtails, freckles and shabby clothes.

William Haines has the leading male role opposite Bessie Love, as Mrs. Wiggs' boy, Billy, driver of the cabbage patch milk waggon.

Confidence--the Keynote of Success

The knowledge that one is properly dressed creates that confidence which characterizes a successful man.

Collars that feel like a caress. The Van-Dusen and semi-soft made to rival the best starched collar.

Shirts that fit correctly. No bulging at neck or bosom. Cuffs turned evenly and when necessary taken off and reversed.

Socks and Woollens with that soft, velvety feeling so much desired and only possible when a soap like "Ivory" is used.

LAST WORDS

Of interest to REVIEW readers are the last remarks of Rabbi Samuel in discussion on the floor of the convention in Asheville, N.C., at which he died:

"Might I just point out that, as this code is going to be printed and will receive a certain amount of publicity, that this amendment ('no rabbi should officiate in the family of a member of another congregation without the consent of the rabbi of the latter except in case of absence from the city') is likely to create far more difficulties for individual rabbis than the difficulties it proposes to remove, particularly in regard to the relations of a Reform rabbi with Orthodox congregations, because this amendment will be held up to him and he will find it very difficult to defend himself. Now the Reform rabbi has to decide questions of marriage which are refused or not recognized by Orthodox congregations, and Orthodox congregations will find in this proposed amendment an excuse for attacking the individual Reform rabbi. I therefore suggest that it will be safer to leave this question out of the code and have it as an unwritten law, as between rabbis or a subject of individual arbitration between the rabbis working in a particular community."

The motion carried.

Rabbi Zlotnik New Zionist Director

At an executive meeting of the Zionist Organization of Canada held Monday, June 21, Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik, of Montreal, was elected executive director for one year beginning July 1, following the resignation of Leon Goldman.

Rabbi Zlotnik has been director of the Jewish National Fund in Canada, publicity and propaganda departments of the Zionist Organization. He was born in Plock, Poland, April 15th, 1888, and brought up in the home of his brothers, both rabbis; 1910 he spent in the Yeshiva Volozyn, where the Smichah was conferred upon him by the famous Gaon, Rabbi Raphael Shapiro. In 1911 he was elected rabbi in the City of Gombin. He was a member of the Central Committee of the Zionist Organization of Poland, and in 1917, when the Agudath Israel started the policy against the Zionist Organization in Poland, he called the first conference for building up a Mizrachi Organization in Poland. Elected president of this conference, he started a campaign for Mizrachi ideals among Polish Jewry, publishing numerous pamphlets both in Hebrew and Yiddish on many timely topics, and on Jewish education. In 1918 he represented the Polish Mizrachi at the first World Mizrachi Conference, which took place in Amsterdam, Holland. In the meantime the Mizrachi throughout Poland had grown up to an organization boasting of a membership of 100,000. He then resigned from his position as rabbi and went to Warsaw as general secretary of the organization. He also organized special Mizrachi schools throughout Poland and a Yeshiva Tachkimoni in Warsaw. In 1920 he came to America, participating on his way, in the first Zionist World Conference after the war, which took place in London in July, 1920. Rabbi Zlotnik is the author of a series of books under the name "Der Vunder Ozar von der Yiddisher Sprach," which is a thorough study of the idioms and special characteristics of the Jewish language. His articles have been published in Yiddish papers in the United States and Canada.

Sam Chait proposed the toast to the Zionist Organization, to which Rabbi J. L. Zlotnik, who has just been appointed its executive director, responded. Young Judaea was proposed by Louis Fitch, and answered by M. Levitt, past president.
